

5.11.2025

Today's reading is from poet ullie-kaye.
It's called "Sidewalk Cracks."

If you have managed to find a way to stay soft in this harsh world.
If you are at peace with your fellow travelers. If you have chosen to love even when love is not so easy.
and if somewhere along the road,
you unearth your voice in all of it;
in whatever brave and beautiful way
you have been called to use it.
then you, my thriver, have unraveled some of life's greatest mysteries.
Not everybody learn to grow through sidewalk cracks.

And so it is!

